Quality Policy

Watts & Hughes Construction has played an active part in changing the face of New Zealand. While we have been aggressively pursuing the very best modern technology and construction techniques, we also have a healthy regard, and respect, for the qualities of the past.

Watts & Hughes Construction's key focus, in all activities and services, is to concentrate on the fundamental element of what constitutes a good building - QUALITY.

Quality is apparent in many aspects of our approach to business. Quality is also central to Watts & Hughes Construction's operating principle - a promise to deliver to clients' quality construction completed on time.

Similarly, quality is the underlying component in our personnel, style and commitment to services.

Not all construction companies balance the best standards of the past with the competence and vision to meet the changing needs of a diverse range of clients for the future.

WE DO

The reason is a belief that quality counts at all costs.

DO IT ONCE, DO IT RIGHT

We therefore request that all employees of the company give their full commitment and active support in the implementation of this policy.
